

CONTRIBUTORS

ISSUE NO. 1

JOHN SHREVE ARBUCKLE, Assoc. AIA, is President of DOCOMOMO NY/Tri-State. He was an Associate at Beckhard Richlan Szerbaty & Associates, a successor to the office of Marcel Breuer, and Director of Business Development at Gwathmey Siegel & Associates. He recently established Ar buckle Architecture Tours, LLC

ANGEL AYÓN, AIA, LEED AP, is a principal at AYON Studio Architecture and Preservation in New York City. He is a member of DOCOMOMO NY/Tri-State and serves on the Municipal Art Society of New York's Preservation Committee.

MEREDITH ARMS BZDAK, PhD, an architectural historian, is a Partner in the Princeton, NJ firm Mills + Schnoering Architects, LLC. She teaches courses on the modern city, preservation of the recent past, and modern Italian architecture at Rutgers University. She is the New Jersey resident on the NY/Tri-State Board.

JAMES CRISPINO is the Design Principal for Francis Cauffman Architects. His wife, Tami Hausman, has her own communications firm, Hausman LLC. They live in Manhattan and summer in the Pines. They have two cats, Lord Byron and Oscar Wilde.

MICHAEL CROSBIE, PhD, FAIA, editor of Faith & Form magazine, is chair of the University of Hartford Department of Architecture and drives past Lundy's Unitarian Meeting House on his way to campus.

JOHN MORRIS DIXON, FAIA, is the former chief editor of Progressive Architecture and now writes for magazines such as Architect and Oculus. He is the Connecticut resident on the NY/Tri-State board.

KIMBRO FRUTIGER is a Los Angeles-based architect with a research interest in postwar American and Italian architectural cultures. kimbrofrutiger.com.

PAUL GLASSMAN teaches architectural history and design at Yeshiva University. He is the Director of Library Services and Associate Professor at Felician College and also teaches art librarianship and library design during the summer sessions at Rutgers.

TAMI HAUSMAN, PhD, a board member of NY/Tri-State, is president of Hausman LLC, an integrated communications company that works with firms in the design industry. She lives happily ever after in a mid-century modern building in Manhattan.

JOHN KRISKIEWICZ, Assoc. AIA, is an architectural historian, assistant professor and chronicler of the under-appreciated mid-century Modern vernacular of New York City.

MARISSA MARVELLI is the Director of Marketing for BSKS Architects in Manhattan. She also serves on the boards of DOCOMOMO NY/Tri-State and the Historic Districts Council, and consults on preservation-related projects throughout the New York region.

KATHLEEN RANDALL is an architectural historian and founding member of DOCOMOMO NY/Tri-State who works at the Guttmacher Institute and in the off hours, on DOCOMOMO—since 1996.

NINA RAPPAPORT is a founding member of DOCOMOMO NY/Tri-State. She was president from 2003 to 2012 and directed the Midtown Manhattan Project. She served on the board of DOCOMOMO US from 1998 to 2008. She is Publications Director of Yale School of Architecture.

RICH RAY earned an MA in American Studies with a focus on political culture because it seemed a reasonable thing to do at the time. As a consequence, he views Modern architecture through an unconventional lens.

DAVID SOKOL has been writing about architecture and design since 1999. He is a contributing editor at Architectural Record, and author of a three-volume book series about Scandinavian design published by Arvinus Förlag/A+O.

A SPECIAL THANK YOU TO:

ERICA STOLLER of Esto Photographics, Inc. whose gift of usage rights for multiple images made this issue of mōd possible.

OUR AUTHORS, who have contributed their thoughts and writing gratis—with utmost patience toward our editors.